Can I appeal my admissions decision to a UC campus?

- If you are denied admissions to a UC campus, you may appeal their decision if you have new and compelling information that was not originally on the UC application.
- New information could be a serious illness, documented personal/family hardship. You may write an essay and ask for up to three letters of recommendation.
- Deadline to appeal is usually by April 15th.
*Double check with individual campuses.
- Please keep in mind, that only a very small percentage of students who appeal their decision for admission get their admissions decisions reversed. For the Fall 2003 UCB 29/1000, UCD 50/850, UCI 209/812. ucla 95/33,650, UCSD64/833, UCSB 72/1056, UCSC 78/229 and UCR 7/60
