Real Learning for Real Life

February 23, 2018

Dear Red Lion Area community:

A life skill that we can teach our children is the ability to look out for the well-being of others. One way we can do this is by teaching our children what to do when they see an interaction or approach a situation that makes them feel uncomfortable or unsafe. We need to help them know what to do in these circumstances. A few months ago, we introduced our students to a new campaign: See Something . . . Say Something.

The following posters will be ever present in our schools to remind students how they can receive help when they need it.

See Something...

Say Something.

Report suspicious behavior and safety issues to help others.
Text or call 717-417-0305

These posters direct students and staff to our SCHOOL SAFETY TIP LINE.

This TIP LINE easily allows students to report tips on bullying, harassment, drugs, vandalism or any safety issue that concerns them. Anyone can submit a tip anonymously online or by telephone.

Phone: 717-417-0305
Text: 717-417-0305
Email: 1174@alert1.us
Web: <http://1174.alert1.us>

Additionally, students and community members having concerns or information involving potential threats upon individuals and/or property may utilize the 911 Student Tip Line. If the threat is not school-related, students, parents, staff, and community members may still provide information involving potential criminal acts. All calls received are monitored by 911 Supervisors.

YORK COUNTY STUDENT TIP LINE – 1-888-332-9283

If we look out for each other and seek help when we feel uncomfortable or unsafe, we can make the Red Lion Area community an even safer place.

Sincerely,

Scott A. Deisley, Ed.D.
