Aid Cleveland Texas
hurricane relief
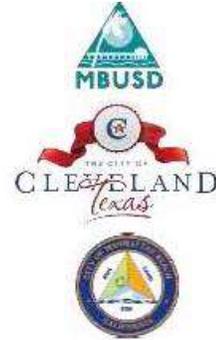

Last Day for Collections!

Here's where we stand after one day of collections:

- We have raised almost $50,000 in donations including a large donation from Chevron to help cover trucking costs!
- We had a massive volunteer turnout yesterday to support all of our community's efforts -- City Hall employees, Police Department volunteers, athletic teams, service organizations, businesses, churches (thank you, American Martyrs!), school staff, parents, grandparents, students, Hermosa Beach residents, & more.
- The donation drop-off point at City Hall had a very big day from 8:00 am to 5:00 p.m.
- Our school sites had great turnouts, with items being donated throughout the day and into the evening.

Plans for Today

We DO NEED more hygiene kits! Approximately 900 have been assembled, but they can use more. You can assemble your own kits or drop off supplies at MBMS and they will create the kits.

We do NOT need any more adult clothing donations. Thank you for your generosity, but these donations already exceed the community's stated need. We still need all of the other items on the list (page 2 of this link).

Please drop off your donations prior to 7:00 p.m. tonight. We need to get them over to the trucks at Mira Costa, load them, and then see them off at their planned departure time of 10:30 p.m. from Mira Costa.

You may still donate financially to the ACT campaign. All proceeds will go directly to this effort.

All volunteers are invited to the send-off tonight! The plan is to load all trucks at Mira Costa and send them on their way at 10:30 p.m.

Thank You!!!

Your donations are going to truly make a difference in the Cleveland community.
