Once logged in, select a resource. Using the full collection of Research Databases will produce the best results. Student Resource Center is mostly current, less authoritative resources like magazines and newspapers, but might also be useful.

Using EBSCOhost Research Databases, there will be a number of choices. Read the descriptions of the Databases and choose those (you can pick more than one) that look relevant.

Questions? Use the Research Assistance form on the library website

The Research Assistance Form will allow you to pose a question to the librarian when you are not in school or able to make it to the library. Be sure to leave an email address.

Student Research Center

Basic Search:
- Title
- Author
- Keyword
- Use AND/OR/NOT in the single search bar with multiple search terms

Advanced Search:
You Can:
- Limit your search to Full Text (not always recommended, Abstracts are useful, too)
- Limit your search to Peer Reviewed (recommended for scholarly research)
- Limit your search to Dates Published (depends on the subject)
- Use Special Limiters in different Databases (Like History Reference Center and TopicSearch)
This can be done at the outset or after receiving results.

Visual Search:
You Can:
- Group Results in various categories
- Move results around
- View results in different ways
- Consult a Results Map
