Approved Services: LITERACY ACCESS / IVY SANDZ Reading, Writing, History, Literature K-12 www.ivysandz.com At Literacy Access, we offer skilled, individualized reading and writing instruction K-12 in a relaxed, supportive environment. READING INSTRUCTION: For younger readers (K-4th grades), sessions grow a child's independent reading level through work on the following: ~ Reading strategies and techniques for decoding ~ Fluency and expression ~ Thinking strategies to improve comprehension ~ Sound/letter recognition ~ Phonics/Sight Words ~ Confidence in learning

For older readers (4th-6th grades), sessions may include: ~ Remediation for struggling readers ~ Training in strategies to build comprehension including inferencing, self-monitoring, making connections, predicting, clarifying, questioning, and evaluating ~ Fluency building WRITING INSTRUCTION: Emerging Writers (K-2nd): For emerging writers, we focus on beginning story writing through a process called interactive writing (the sharing of the pen between teacher and student). This then moves into independent writing work. Creating a message, basic storytelling, translating sounds into print, letter formation, and familiarity with written word chunks and sight words are developed. Young Writers (1st-3rd): As young writers progress, sessions focus on creative writing. We learn to develop story problems, characters, setting, dialogue and description to create interesting stories. We can also focus on how to collect information from nonfiction texts and then write about what we've learned (beginning research). Upper Elementary/Middle School Writers (4th-8th): Individual sessions can focus on creative writing or supporting academic growth in writing. As kids transition into upper elementary and onto middle school, they are also developing and later refining writing skills in the formats of persuasive essay, literature response, summary, and expository writing. We support each writer to gain skills and confidence in each of these writing processes. High School Writers (9th – 12th grades): Sessions at this level focus on literature response essay writing, research-based persuasive essays, and other forms of academic writing with attention to solid organization and thesis development, voice and audience awareness, advanced editing skills, and advanced critical thinking. LITERATURE/HISTORY STUDIES: Upper elementary, middle school, and high school students have all moved from "learning to read" to "reading to learn." At this stage, deep learning about historical topics and study of literature both lend themselves to the development of critical thinking, subject matter knowledge, and the writing of reflections, summaries, and formal essays. I enjoy combining readings from historical non-fiction texts with historical fiction to help students understand what life in that particular time was like.

Approved Services: I provide comprehensive and enjoyable private music lessons on guitar and/or on piano. Music and mastery of an instrument is a great way to cultivate skills such as coordination, strength, and confidence, not to mention self-expression. This innovative program offers weekly lessons of 45 or 60 minute lessons at my home music studio in East Davis or in the parents' home, if a piano of sufficient keyboard or guitar is available. Cost is competitive, but affordable. Any level is welcome including beginners through advanced.
