

How to add Assignment descriptions for students and Assignment details for teachers by Activating Campus Learning trial

Did you notice that the assignment description area is missing with the new update? Here is how to fix it:

1. In Campus Instruction, select the "What is Campus Learning" button
2. Scroll to the bottom and enter your email and select the activate button

Now that your Campus Learning trial has been activated, you will have more options in Campus Instruction.

One feature that will come in handy is the "For Students" area under Assignments.

When editing an assignment go to the "For Students" section and expand it.

The "For Students" section includes instructions, files, and other items intended to be viewed by students in the Portal and Campus Student.

1. Enter Student Instructions or descriptions for students to view in the Portal and Campus Student.

*Adding Campus Learning is a trial and free for the 2017-2018 school year. If this is something that is affordable and is a permanent need for our district we will look into adding this to our Infinite Campus.
