The Ark:

I choose the ark because it shows that we can build many things in our heart to love God more and more stronger. The ark also represents that we can push through the hardship in our life to get through are stress. The last thing I think the ark represents that we can always push away the bullies when they think I am doing something weird even though I am doing something that God sent me to do just like noah, the bullies were teasing him because they thought he was crazy of building a boat but he was building it to live.
