Foreign Language FILM FESTIVAL

November 7, 2013
Wray Theatre

9:00-11:00am

Spanish film

“Made in Argentina” (Argentina)

A couple moves to New York from Argentina for political reasons, but later returns back home. How do they readjust and how do their children adjust to the cultural shock? It is a common phenomenon for families of immigrants and their children.

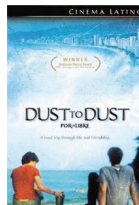

11:15-1:15pm

Spanish film

“Por la libre” (“Dust to Dust” Mexico)

After the death of the family patriarch, two completely different cousins embark on a journey to dispose of their grandfather’s ashes as requested. The two young men are brought closer together as they gain a deeper understanding of their Grandfather’s life.

2:30-4:30pm

French film

“Entre les murs” (“The Class” France)

François Marin is forced into this classroom family for another school year teaching at a racially mixed inner city high school in Paris. Marin’s class this year of fourteen and fifteen year olds is no different than previous years, although the names and faces have changed. Marin tries to get through to his students, sometimes with success and sometimes resulting in utter failure. It results in another entertaining, bonding experience.

7:00-9:00pm

Chinese film

“Happy Times” (China)

Zhao is an aging bachelor who would like to marry and wants to impress his fiancée by claiming he is wealthy. She introduces him to her son and his blind stepdaughter, whom she sees as a burden. The relationship that blooms between the aging bachelor and the young girl is the most genuine that the man experiences.

Parking passes will be available at the campus parking booth on College Drive.
