According to your answers above, mix and prioritize your off-and on-campus challenges? For example, an immediate family member is facing a difficult medical procedure vs. preparing students for a standards test? Or finding a baby sitter vs. preparing for a PLC meeting? How would you organize your mind so that you can be efficient in each situation?

Overcoming challenges improves the quality of who we are.

What is your Pre-set? When life throws you a curve, which it definitely will, what ideals would you like remain constant? It is best to decide who you are, your purpose and intentions in private before any situation so that when the unexpected occurs, you are ready!
