A True and Delicious Tale
by Rebecca Kai Dotlich

Once there was a sea of saplings that dreamed of growing in an orchard with all that was tender and true; honeysun, cidersky, bluerain—some say it was dreams that made those saplings grow and grow and grow.

Others say it was the farmers, the cobblers, the bakers and jam makers that chanted and whispered and wished them to life.