

Television over the years

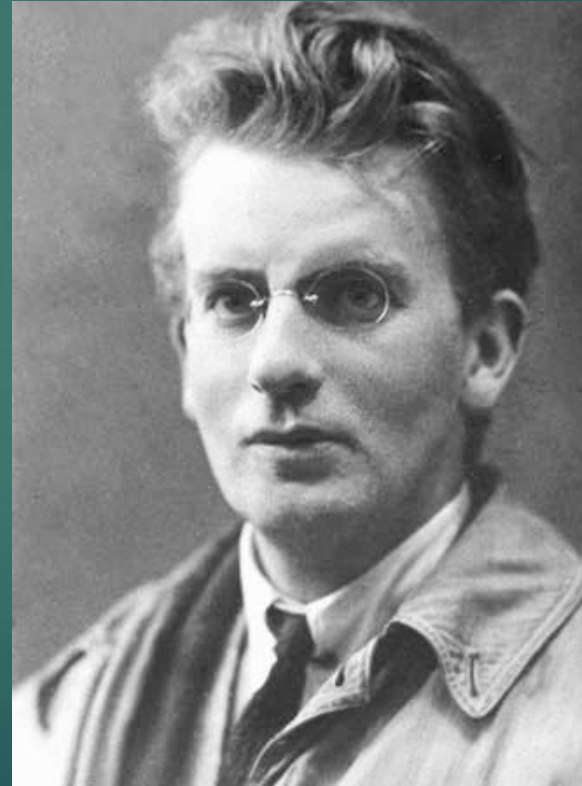

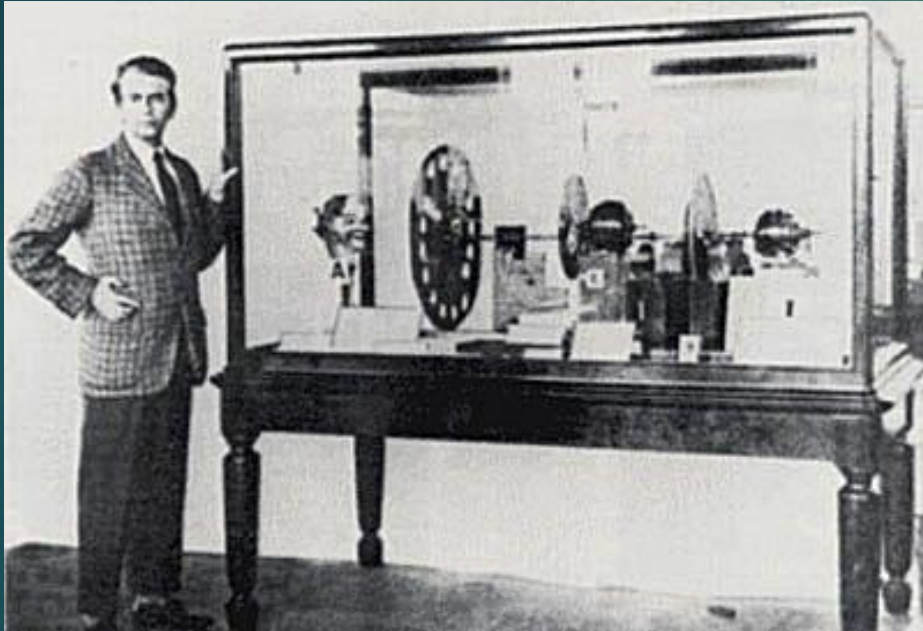

CREATED BY MICHAEL LYMON AND JONATHAN ORTIZ

When was the first tv Invented?

Who was the creator of the tv?

The tv was invented in Jan, 26, 1926.

The creator of the tv was a Scottish inventor by the name of John Logie Baird.

Television in the past were just simply, they didn't have color, focus, or HD images .Now they have 3D images, and Ultra Hd. Televisions costed a lot of money not everyone couldn't afford to buy one .Now mostly everyone has a television, not like in the past only the rich people had televisions.

1900's television

20th century television

© Daily Mail

Back then the television was only used for watching television shows. Now a days they use the television mostly for netflix , face time , games , movies , youtube , hulu , and the internet.

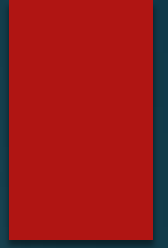

Back then

Now

Innovations

The television was a great invention but , it also needed innovations . It needed to be great for entertainment. This is one of the many reasons they made a television with 3D images , touch, high definition, color , and last but not least mobile televisions.

*The television best fits into information and technology.
Because of it's internet search to find what you want to know and for it's latest technology examples like youtube , and updated google .*

The positive effects televisions have on society is that citizens could learn from educational channels, and they could be informed by the latest news.

television has many negative effects on society, like kids are getting lazy, addicted, vision gets hurt badly (crossed sighted), there's a lot of violence, and kids are watching inappropriate channels, also they could also get brain damage.