New: Trial modification for AP Applications for 2018-19 courses as of 1/30/18

Overview: Students who have demonstrated a high level of competence (“A”) in the skills required for particular AP courses will be accepted into the AP course without taking the qualifying tests. All other requirements remain intact. The qualifying process for all other applicants remains intact including the necessity of these students taking the qualifying test.

Students who have earned both an “A” (not “A-”) for Semester 1 AND on the midterm exam on the preceding course will be admitted into the AP course without taking the qualifier provided they meet any and all other requirements for the course. Requirements include, but may not be limited to:

Completion of the Application

Completion of the preceding course with a sufficient grade

Completion of the summer assignment

Any and all other expectations required from other admitted students

The qualifying test is still required for all other students and all other aspects of the qualifying process have not changed from last year.

Preceding courses:

American Literature Acc	for AP English Language
AP English Language	for AP English Literature
American History I Acc	for AP American History
PreCalculus Acc	for AP Calculus BC
or { Biology or Chemistry Acc*	for AP Environmental Science
AP Biology or AP Chemistry*	for AP Environmental
AP Gov’t & Politics (B+*)	for AP Comparative
(*involve final/Sem grades)

Notes:

- 1) This modification is deliberately narrowly defined.
- 2) Other students will be accepted based on qualifying tests, grades, etc.
- 3) The impact of this change on grades, equity, stress, & learning will be reviewed.
- 4) This modification is being implemented on a trial basis only for this year.
